Such has been the case with respect to the rising on board the Nouvelle Penelope, which has of late attracted so much attention. Here a rude break has been made upon the peaceful settlement of Macao. It was first startled by the terrible news of the massacre which had been committed on board proved; but of this there can be no certainty, to gather and carry. when the way in which Chinese justice is administered is taken into consideration But how it could happen that the Governor of Macao should permit the execution to take place under the very eyes of the inhabitants, it is impossible to conceive. The idea apparently was to exert an intimidating effect upon other coolies, and so to prevent future revolts. But surely, if this end is desirable, some other means might have been taken to attain it. Our correspondent K. C. The cause of all this is undoubtedly to be found in the corruption of the Chinese Government; but it cannot be py to go away. I am here for the Crown, of held that this fact clears foreigners connected

Such might be the case if the facts were not known: but they are now notorious, and nobody can take away a number of coolies under contracts without having the strongest reason to believe that at least a considerable number among them are taken against their will. THE SNAPPED CABLES. (From the New York World, December 12th.) The ocean cables recently injured are the Atlantic cables of 1865 and 1886. It will be remembered that immediately after the discovery of the interruption at some distance from the Newfoundland shore, the steamer Robert Lowe was sent out to grapple the injured cable to repair it. Almost simultaneously with what was then supposed was the time of the grappling, the other cable ceased working. It was conjectured that this was caused by the carelessness of the engineers of the repairing expedition grappling the wrong cable. Since then, however, it has been discovered that this was not so. The weather permitting operations on one day, the Lows mised one section of the cable and communicated with the above. The officers stated that on the day the second cable was broken no attempt had been made to grapple at all. It is, therefore, conjectured that a similar cause injured both cables-prooccasion the cubic was crushed by an iceberg. A portion of the shattered cable is now shown in the New York office as an illustration of the
